REASONS WHY
they should patronize the

Toronto Mills :

1st. Our facilities for doing CUS-TOM WORK, expeditiously, and in a manner warranted to give satisfaction, are not surpassed by any Mills
in the County:

2nd. Skillfull and experienced Millers, only are employed, and customers will always find them good natured
and ready to attend to orders.

3rd. You can always have your
work done promptly,
the same day you bring it,
thereby avoiding the inconvenience of having to come a second time

Having

7 Run of Stone, and sufficient power to crowd them,

We are never CLOGGED, and no
NO CUSTOM WORK has to be left over NIGHT.

4th. By having separate runs of stone for different kinds of grain,
we are enabled to give better satisfaction than any Mill can, which runs Wheat and Feed through the same hopper.

5th. We have in operation two first-class Corn Shellers, whereby you can have your corn shelled quickly and perfectly without extra charge.

6th. You can always get the highest market price for all kinds of grain at the Toronto Mills.

7th. You can buy Flour, Feed, Shirts, Shipping, Screenings, and, in fact, anything pertaining to our business, in large or small quantities, at or below Oswego prices.

8th. All our work is WARRANT-ED.

Genuine old government Java coffee at Ballard's. 19

The following poem, composed by the late Horace Greeley, we think is well worth a place in any newspaper. It was composed previous to 1846. Who can but regret the name of Horace Greeley when they read this poem? He, above all men, has made the press one of the strongest powers to dispel ignorance, reprove iniquity, support justice, and enlighten the mind. He should be remembered by everybody connected with "The Press."

EDWIN PALMER.

The Press.

Long slumbered the world in the darkness of error,
And ignorance brooded o'er earth like a pall;
To the mite and crown men abused them in terror,
Though calling the bondage and bitter the thrall.

When a voice like the earthquake's revealed the dishonor—
A flash like the lightning's unveiled every eye,
And o'er hill-top and glen floated liberty's banner,
While round it men gathered to conquer or die.

'Twas the voice of the Press—on the startled ear breaking,
Ingiant-born prowess, like PALLAS of old;
'Twas the flash of intelligence, gloriously avenging.

A glow on the cheek of the noble and bold,
And tyranny's minions, o'erwreathed and affrighted, Sought a lasting refuge in the cloister and cowl,
And the chains which bound nations in ages benighted,
Were cast to the haunts of the bat and the owl.

Then hail to the Press! chosen guardian of freedom;
Strong sword-arm of justice! bright sunbeam
of truth!
We pledge to her cause, (and she has but to need them.)
The strength of our manhood, the fire of our youth;
Should desert e'er dare to impede her free soar-ing.

O bigot to fetter her flight with his chain,
We swear that the earth shall close o'er our deploring,
Or view her in gladness and freedom again.

But no!—to the day-dawn of knowledge and glory,
A far brighter noontide-refuge succeeds;
And our art shall gleam, through all ages, in story.

Her champion who triumphs—her martyr who bleeds—
And proudly her sons shall recall their devotion,
While millions shall listen to honor and bless,
Till there bursts a response from the heart's strong emotion,
The Press!

The Little Stowaway.

'Bout three years ago, afore I got this berth as I'm on now, I was second engineer aboard a Liverpool steamer, bound for New York. There'd been a lot of extra cargo sent down just at the minute, and we'd no end of a job stowin it away, and that run us late o' startin, so that altogether, as you may think, the capt'n was 'falloverin in the best humor in the world, nor the mate either. As for the chief engineer, he was an easy-going sort o' chap as nothing on earth could put out. But on the morning of the third day out from Liverpool, he cum down to me in a precious hurry, lookin as if something had put him out pretty considerably.

"Tom," says he, "what d'ye think?
Blest if we aint found a stowaway!"
That's the name, you know, sir, as we gives to chaps as hide themselves aboard outward bound vessels, and get carried out unbeknown to anybody.

"The dickens you have," says I.
"Who is he, and where did you find him?"

"Well, we found him stowed away
'mong the easks forward, and he was we'd never ha' twigged him at all, if the skipper's dog hadn't sniffed him out, and begun barking. Sitch a little mite as he is, too, I could a'most put him in my bacey pouch, poor little beggar; but he looks to be a good plucked up for all that."

I didn't wait to hear no more, but up on deck like a sky-rocket; and there I did see a sight. Every man Jack o' the crew, and what few passengers we had aboard, was all in a ring on the fo'c'st-le, and in the middle stood the fast mate, lookin as black as thunder. Right in front o' him, lookin a regular mite 'mong them big fellers, was a little bit o' a lad not ten years old—ragged as a scarecrow, but with bright curly hair, and a brown little face o' his own, if it wasn't so woful thin and pale. But, bless yer soul, to see the way that little chap held his head up, and looked about him, you'd ha' thought the whole ship belonged to him. The mate was a great, bulkin, black-bearded fellow, with a look 'ud ha' frightened a horse, and a voice to make one jump
through a key-hole; but the young man worn't a bit afraid—he stood straight up and looked him full in the face with those bright, clear eyes o' his'n, for all the world as if he was 'Prince Alfred himself. Folk did say afterwards (lower-in his voice to a whisper) as how he comed o' better blood nor what he ought,
and for my part I'm rather that way
o' thinkin myself, for I never seed a common street-Harab (as they call 'em now), carry it off like him. You might ha' heard a pin drop as the mate spoke.

"Well, you young whelp," says he, in his grimmest voice, "what brought you here?"

"It was my stepfather as done it," says the boy in a weak little voice, but as steady as could be. "Father's dead, and mother's married again, and my new father says as how he won't have no brats about eaten up his wages, and he stowed me away when nobody warn't looking, and guv me some grub to keep me a goin for a day or two till I got to Aunt Jane at Halifax, and here's her address."

"We all believed every word on't even without the paper; for his look,

and his voice, and the way he spoke was enough to show that there warn't ha'orth o' lying in his whole skin. But the mate didn't seem to swallow the yarn at all. He only shrugged his shoulders with a kind o' grin, as much as to say, "I'm too old a bird to be caught with that kind of chaff," and then he says to him, "Look here, my lad, there's all very fine, but won't do here; some o' these men o' mine are in the secret, and I mean to have it out of 'em. Now, you just point out the man as stowed you away, and fed you, this very minute; if you don't it will be the worse for you."

The boy looked up in his bright, fearless way—it did my heart good to look at him, the brave little chap!—and says
quite quietly, "I've told you the truth—
I aint got any more to say."

The mate says nothin', but looks at him for a minute as if he'd seen clean through him, and then he faced round to the men, lookin' blacker than ever:
"Reeve a rope to the yard," he sings out,
loud enough to raise the dead. "Smart,
now!"

The men all looked at each other, as much as to say, "What on earth's a comin' now?" But aboard ship, o' course, when you are told to do a thing you've got to do it. So the rope was rove in a jiffy.

"Now, my lad," says the mate, in a hard, square kind o' voice that made every word seem like fitten' a stone into a wall, "you see that er rope? Well, I'll give you ten minutes to confess"
he took out his watch and held it in his hand—"and if you don't tell the truth
after the time's up, I'll hang you like a dog!"

The crew all stared at one another, as if they couldn't believe their ears. I didn't believe mine, I can tell ye. And then a low growl went among 'em, like a wild beast wakin' out of a nap.

"Silence there!" shouts the mate, in a voice like a fierce nor-easter. "Stand by the run forward!" and with his own hand he put the noose round the boy's neck. The little fellow never flinched a bit, but there were some among the sailors—big, strong chaps as could feller an ox—as shook like leaves in the wind.
As for me, I bethought myself o' my little curly-haired lad at home, and how it would be if any one was to go for to hang him, and at the very thought on't
I tingled all over, and my fingers clinched themselves as if they were a grippin' somebody's throat. I clutched hold o' a stanchion, and held it behin' my back all day.

"Tom," whispers the chief engineer to me, "d'ye think he really means to do it?"

"I don't know," says I through my teeth, "but if he does, he shall go first,
if I swing for it!"

I've been in many an ugly scrape in my time, but I never felt 'arfas bad as I did then. Every minute seemed as long as a dozen, and the tick o' the mate's watch, regular, prickin' my ears like a pin. The men were very quiet, but there was a precious ugly look on some o' their faces, and I notice that three or four un' em kept edgin' forward to where the mate was standin, in a way that meant mischief. As for me, I'd made up my mind that if he did go for to hang the poor little chap, I'd kill him on the spot,
and take my chance.

"Eight minutes," says the mate, his great, deep voice breakin' in upon the silence like the toll of a funeral bell. "If you got anything to confess, my lad, you'd best be out with it, for your time
is nearly up."

"I've told you the truth," answers the boy, very pale, but firm as ever. "May I say my prayers, please?"

The mate nodded, and down goes the poor little chap on his knees—with that infernal roar about his neck all the time —and puts up his poor little hands to pray. I couldn't make out what he said
—fact my head was in sitch a whirl that I'd hardly ha' know'd my own name—but I'll be bound God heard it every word. Then he ups on his feet again, and puts his hands behind him, and says to the mate quietly, "I'm ready."

And then, sir, the mate's hard, grim face broke up all at once, like I've seen ice in the Baltic. He snatched up the boy in his arms, and kissed him, and burst out a cryin' like a child, and I think there warn't one of us as didn't do the very same thing. I know I did, myself for one.

"God bless you, my boy," says he,
smoother'n the child's hair with his great hard hand. "You are a true Englishman, every inch of you; you wouldn't tell a lie to save your life. Well, if so be yer father cast you off, I'll be yer father from this day forth, and if I ever forget you,
then may God forget me."

And he kept' his word, too. When he got to Halifax, he found out the little un's amt, and gave her a lump o' money to make him comfortable, and now he

News of the Week.

A conflagration is reported as raging in the Fishkill, N. Y., mountains. Forests are in flames in various portions of Northern Michigan. Counterfeit tens on the Central National Bank of Rome, were put in circulation in Williamsburg Saturday night. One man was arrested. Rumor has it that the Emperor William is incapacitated for further duty, and that Crown Prince Frederick William will soon be Regent. A grand naval display for the delight of the Shah of Persia took place at Portsmouth, England on Monday. The Shah said to Minister Schenck that he would like to visit the United States, but time and distance prevented. His wishes and assurances of his esteem conveyed to President Grant. A Washington dispatch says that four of the six names before the President for the Chief Justiceship are William M. Everts, Benjamin R. Curtis, E. Rockwood Hear, and Attorney-General Williams, with the chances in favor of Mr. Curtis. Judges Ingraham and Brady, of the first department, have decided at general term of the Supreme Court that a husband cannot recover for the loss of his wife, even if willfully murdered, but may sue for the value of her services and loss of her society while she is in charge of a physician. The Supreme Court of Ohio has decided in the Cincinnati case that the School Board had the right to pass a resolution to exclude not only the Bible and singing, but religious instruction, and the court has no authority to interfere with their discretion in the exercise of this power. The State Temperance Convention assembled at Albany, on Tuesday. One hundred and fifty-five delegates were present. Hon. W. T. Groo, of Middletown, Orange county, was chosen chairman. Resolutions were adopted in favor of prohibition, condemning Governor Dix for vetoing the local option law, calling for a State convention in October and asking Congress to pass laws prohibiting the importation and manufacture of intoxicating liquors. The Senate of Connecticut has passed a usury law fixing the rate of interest at seven per cent. The Postmaster-general on Thursday signed additional articles to the present postal treaty with Canada, providing for an interchange of postal cards at a prepaid rate of two cents in full to destination in either country, prepayment to be effected by affixing to the card a one cent postage stamp. Postal Cards not so additionally prepared are not to be forwarded.

On Thursday, Judge Selden made a motion for a new trial in the case of Susan B. Anthony, convicted of illegal voting. The motion was denied. District-attorney Crowley moved for sentence. In response to the question by the court, if she had anything to say why sentence should not be pronounced, Miss Anthony said she had many things to say, and was proceeding to review the whole case, when she was stopped. The reviewed. She was then sentenced to pay a fine of $100 and costs of the suit, the court adding that no order was made that she should stand committed until the fine was paid. Horace F. Clark, the well-known financier, died at his residence in New York city Thursday night. He was President of the Lake Shore Railroad Company, and some years since occupied a position of great legislative prominence, being a member of the 35th and 36th Congresses and the foremost of the five Anti-Compensation members whose votes were necessary to organize the House of Representatives by the election of a Speaker. The report of the Polaris expedition was submitted to the president on Thursday, and given to the public. The commission found that the death of Captain Hall was natural and of opinion that the separation of the ship from the party on the ice floe was accidental. The scientific results of the expedition reported very gratifying, but their value can not be correctly estimated until the arrival of the vessel. The commission did not learn any facts detrimental to Captain Buddington. The Government will send two vessels in search of the Polaris. On Friday, Judge Hunt, presiding at the United States Circuit Court, in session at Canandaigua, denied the motion for a new trial in the case of the inspectors of election who received the votes of Susan B. Anthony and other women, and sentenced each of them to pay a fine of $25 and costs of the suit. The city of London gave a grand ball on Friday night in honor of the Shah of Persia. Three thousand guests were present in Guild Hall, among them the Prince and Princess of Wales, the Czar and Princess Dagmar, and all of the principal ambassadors. The lord mayor presented the Shah with an address enclosed in a gold casket. The settlers in Summer Lake valley, fearing Indian hostilities would result from the Modoc war, captured three Snake Indians as spies. The Indians attempted to escape, were shot and killed. The chief of the tribe promises not to make trouble, but expects the white of fenders will be punished. Long continued rain has seriously injured the Northwestern cotton crops. The postmaster at Batavia has informed the postmaster in New York city that the mail which left New York city at 8:30 on Tuesday morning of last week was nearly all burned before reaching that place. An investigation has been ordered. The farmers of Illinois are going to adopt a new Declaration of Independence on the 4th of July, pledging themselves to use all lawful means to free themselves from the tyranny of monopoly, and never to cease till licentious extravagance has given place "to purity, honesty and frugality in every department."

It is thought that the death of Horace F. Clark will embarrass the suit of the government against the Union Pacific railroad. The Treasury Department desires to withdraw the legal tenders of 1869, which can be forwarded and exchanged on the same terms as mutilated currency. The president of the Chinese companies has sent to Hong Kong 3,000 circulars giving full account of the Chinese troubles in San Francisco and California, to be distributed in the cities of China.

VICTOR FITZGER'S CONQUEST OF A FARM.

How to Begin.

BY PROF. J. D. BUTLER.
LINCOLN, Nebraska, 1873.
St. Piat, if we believe the legend, after he was beheaded, took up his head in his hand, and walked two leagues. Soptics say that if they could only see him take the first step they could have faith in all the rest. But it is the first step that costs. They stumble there.

So, many a moneyless man is confident he could pay for a farm, if he only knew how to begin, yet sees all doors of entrance to real estate shut, and without even keys. To encourage such despairing landowners, let me show them a headless boy now doing what they might long ago have done—see St. Piat take his first step!

The 1,774th purchaser of land from the Burlington & Missouri River Railroad Co. in Nebraska, was Victor Fitzger, on June 23, 1872. This purchase was 160 acres at $6 per acre, no part of the principal payable for two years, and thence forward, one-ninth of it annually. The first year's interest, $57.60 he paid on the day of purchase.

Victor Fitzger is a boy of sixteen. Within the last two seasons he has earned enough chiefly by "breaking," that is, the first plowing of the prairie, not only for his first payment, but for buying a yoke of two year old steers. This yoke, a year hence, will sell for more than enough to make the payment then due. With the surplus thus obtained, the earnings for two years of a yoke of yearlings, which he can now buy for a trifle and the sale of the same when they become three year olds he will have sufficient in 1874 to pay the first installment of principal as soon as it becomes payable.

His purpose is to buy a yoke of yearlings every year till his land is paid for, selling them again whenever he can, at a profit. Doubtless, he will also, next season, plow some of his land and sell a crop of soil corn for enough to defray his personal expenses.

Should he be disappointed in these reasonable expectations, he has a father on a homestead within a mile, and a grandfather in Wisconsin, who, while proud to see him self-supporting will not fail to back him up. Besides, in unlooked for reverses, he has, in the Railroad Company, a creditor who can afford to wait, and who will grant every indulgence to a boy who has begun so well.

What a beginning his is! It is such as inspires a good feeling—even at Bunker Hill no began the American Revolution that nobody could doubt the fact that contest must end.

The name Victor befits this farmer-hero—not yet mature, but matchless. It is alike descriptive of his past, and prophetic of his future. It will prove a trumpet-voice, stimulating a legion to follow in his footsteps.

You will find him in Saline county, as frontiersman any, in the thirteenth section of the sixth township, of the first range west of the sixth principal meridian (136, 64, 1r, w.) Post Office, Atlanta, Nebraska.

Since Victor's purchase the B. & M. Railroad Company have made their terms still more generous. They now require till the end of four years after purchase. Only at the beginning of the fifth year is one-seventh of the principal payable, and the same proportion each year thereafter. This arrangement makes the shoe easy, just where it has hitherto been found to pinch, and doubles the case with a farmer can make a farm by its produce pay for itself. Sales by the Burlington & Missouri River Railroad in Iowa and Nebraska up to January first, 1873, 478,988 acres to 4,525 purchasers.

ISPECIAL NOTICES.

THE BIRCH DALE MEDICINAL SPRING is a natural water of great purity, and especially recommended for consumption, being the only natural water that has proved a specific in this perplexing disease. The very best medical authority testifies to permanent cures where all other treatment was abortive. They also practice numerous effects in chronic diseases of the kidneys, (such as Bright's, female complaints, rheumatism, dyspepsia, and liver complaints, cancer, scrofula, and all diseases originating in an impure state of the blood. Send for book. HERMON CONANT & CO., 30 Broadway, N. Y.

Hoofland's German Bitters. It is over thirty years since this celebrated remedy was introduced to the American Public. During this time it has performed hundreds and thousands of the most astonishing cures, and its reputation and sale have now reached a point that far surpasses any remedy of the present or past ages. It has acquired this great reputation, not by a system of puffing, but by the actual merit of the action it does. If you are afflicted with any of the diseases for which it is recommended, such as Dyspepsia, Liver Complaint, Nervous Debility, or disorder of the Digestive Organs, it will not fail to sustain its reputation in your case. It is not an alcoholic drink, but a pure Medicinal Bitters that will do you good. For sale by all Druggists. Be sure you get "Hoofland's German Bitters." # MORTGAGE SALE.

Whereas default has been made in the payment of the money secured by mortgage dated September 22d, 1870, executed by Jacob Hartman, of the town of Parish, Oswego county, N. Y., to Bunker Cone, of Volney, Oswego county, N. Y., which mortgage, with the power of sale contained therein, was recorded in the Oswego County Clerk's office on the 28th day of September, 1870, at 9 o'clock a. m., in Liber 85 of Mortgages, page 389; and whereas the said Bunker Cone is now the lawful owner and holder thereof, and the amount claimed to be due on said mortgage, at the time of the first publication of this notice, is six hundred and thirty-three dollars and twenty-seven cents ($633.27), and to become due the further sum of two thousand eight hundred and ninety-six dollars and seventy-five cents ($2,896.75), making the whole sum unpaid upon said mortgage at this date, $3,530.02. And no proceedings having been had at law to recover the same, or any part thereof, Now, therefore, notice is hereby given that, by the power of sale contained in said mortgage, and duly recorded as aforesaid, and in pursuance of the statute in such case made and provided, the said mortgage will be foreclosed by sale of the premises therein described, at public auction, at the Carley House in Parish, N. Y., on the 12th day of September, 1873, at 10 o'clock a. m. The premises are described in said mortgage substantially as follows: All that piece or parcel of land situate in the town of Parish, county of Oswego, and State of New York, and bounded as follows: Being the north half of lot No. 6 of Scriba's patent, in township twenty-three, beginning at the north-east corner of lot No. (43) forty-three, at a stake and stone; thence running north 68°, east along the south line of lot No. (32) thirty-two, 34 chs, and 80 lks. to a hemlock stake on the town line between Parish and Andover; thence south 22°, west along said town line fifty-seven chains and eighty links to a stake, being the line between Parish and Andover; thence north 68°, west thirty-four chains and eighty links to a stake, being five links east, 65° west from a marked hemlock; thence north 22°, east along the east line of said lot No. 43, fifty-seven chains and eighty links to the place of beginning, containing two hundred 100 acres of land, more or less, and the north one hundred acres of land is the north half of the above described piece of land intended to be conveyed.
Dated June 10, 1873.

Notice to Subscribers.

The dates printed at the right of Subscribers' names in the address on the margin of the Independent show the time to which their subscription has been paid, but do not include the paper of that date.

IMPORTANT NOTICE.

On and after the first of July next, postage will be charged on all papers delivered through the post-office, at the rate of five cents per quarter for weeklies. In order to save this to our subscribers who have heretofore received them through our village post-office, they will hereafter be delivered at this office. The Independent will be ready for delivery every Thursday, at 11 o'clock a. m., and it will be a great convenience to us if no one will call for his paper till that hour.

ICE CREAM AND STRAWBERRIES.—The ladies of the Presbyterian Society of this village will serve ice-cream and strawberries in the lecture-room of the church, to-morrow (Friday) evening.

FESTIVAL.—The ladies of the Baptist Society will hold a Festival on Tuesday evening, July 1st, in the Empire Hall, for the benefit of the Sunday-school. All are cordially invited.

THE LADIES.—of the Methodist Episcopal Society, in this place, will be pleased to meet their friends socially, in the Empire Hall, on Wednesday evening, July 2d. Hot coffee, strawberry short-cake, ice-cream, &c.

ICE CREAM ON WEDNESDAY.—In accordance with their custom during last summer, the ladies of the Universalist Society will serve ice-cream, either by the plate or quantity, at the basement of the Universalist church, between the hours of 4 and 10 o'clock p. m., every Wednesday.

DEATH OF MRS. CLARK.—Mrs. Clark, widow of the late Starr Clark, and one of the oldest residents of this village, died at her home on Friday morning, the 20th inst. She was seventy-eight years of age, and had been growing feeble for some time. Only on the last day of her life did she cease to go about, and death to her was but going quietly to sleep, to wake, as we believe, in a more pleasant morning than any of these. She was buried from her residence on Monday afternoon.

OMISSION.—We regret to have omitted from the report of Anniversary Exercises last week the oration of W. H. Loomis, "Formation of Character," one of the best in the exercises, which were all good. The mistake was an official blunder, overlooked by the proof reader, it having been duly noticed by the reporter.

A FINE BIBLE.—We have lately seen the prospectus of "The Illustrated Polyglot Family Bible," published by H. S. Goodspeed & Co., of New York, whose agent is now engaged in taking orders for the work in this vicinity. Its good print, its many and valuable aids, and its fine appearance, render it a superior Family Bible, and those who are without a similar work will do well to secure a copy.

We were the recipient on Wednesday of a short call from Dr. Bowen, of Mexico, N. Y., uncle of Dr. A. B. Bowen, of this city. Nothing further has been done towards leasing the road, or in reference to the proposed extension to Watertown.—Watertown Times.

In consequence of the great number of people who went to Oswego on Monday, either on business or to Barnum's, (we went on business) there will be no celebration in this village on the Fourth. There is a good deal of trouble in different families because the children have no money for fireworks, and it is probable that some of them will have to go on short allowance for a week or two.

We have received a copy of two Wabasha (Minn.) letters, of June 19, containing an interesting account of the starting of a large mill in Wabasha, in which mention is made of our former townsman, Mr. Henry Chapman, as superintending the grinding. We congratulate Mr. Chapman on his good position, and his brother-in-law, the proprietor, on having secured his services.

Black River Association.

The above body held its annual meeting in the Universalist Church in this village last Wednesday and Thursday, the 18th and 19th inst.

The meeting was well attended, and the reports from the different churches and Sunday Schools in its jurisdiction encouraging.

The meeting was called to order by the standing clerk, Rev. W. S. Goodell. After uniting in prayer with Rev. Chas. Fluhrer, the Council was organized by calling to the chair, Geo. M. Hopkinson, Esq., of Ellensburg, as President pro tem. The Council having finished its morning business, a spirited conference meeting was held until a call to dinner was made from the basement.

In the afternoon Rev. Chas. Fluhrer preached an able and eloquent discourse from the text, "I have trodden the wine-press alone." His theme was individual responsibility, which he claimed could not be shifted to any one else. Mr. Fluhrer is an able speaker, and we should judge, a live pastor.

After the sermon the Council completed its permanent organization by choosing Geo. M. Hopkinson, President, and Rev. Mr. Goodell, Standing Clerk.

Quarterly Conferences for the ensuing year were appointed. The first to be held at Natural Bridge, in September; the second at Potosi, in December; the third at Ellensburg in February.

On Wednesday evening Mr. Hersey, of Watertown, preached.

On Thursday a. m., the occasional sermon was delivered by Rev. O. K. Crosby, of Fulton; in the afternoon Rev. J. H. Stewart, of Watertown, preached, and Thursday evening Rev. A. L. Rice, also of Watertown.

On Thursday p. m., the Eucharist was observed, previous to which three persons were received in the church by the holy rite of baptism, administered by its pastor, Rev. J. Vincent, assisted by Rev. W. S. Goodell.

The meeting was pleasant, and, we trust, profitable to the cause of Christ's religion. We are glad to know of the increasing prosperity of this branch of the Church Universal. Com.

The Universalist Association.

The Black River Association of Universalists met in the Universalist church in this village on the morning of June 18th, and continued the meeting through that and the following day. Eight ministers were present, together with delegates from a number of Societies within the limits of the Association. This body is composed of the pastors and delegates of the Societies within the bounds of a district, and its work, in the main, is that of a conference, or council, in which ways and means are devised for extending the faith, and increasing the strength and usefulness of the Universalist church.

It has no legislative power, that, being vested in the State and General Conventions of the denomination. The meeting at this place was one of considerable interest; methods of work were freely discussed, conferences appointed at various places for the ensuing year, and an earnestness evinced which showed a determination on the part of those present to make the Association a power in spreading abroad the vital and practical principles of their Christian faith.

Prayers were conducted by ministers in attendance. These sermons were all characterized by earnestness and vigor of thought. Leaving no room for doubt in the minds of the hearers as to the fundamental doctrines of Universalism; they also entered into the realities and experiences of man's every day life, adapting to these the divine and eternal truths that shine so brightly in the life and character of Jesus Christ.

The meeting throughout was both enjoyable and very instructive, and it is believed that much good will be the result of its influence and work.

Reasons Why People prefer the Elias Howe Sewing Machine.

1st. It is more durable than any other machine in market. Being easily re-adjusted to take up wear.

2d. The shuttle is large, and never wears out, as the wear all comes on the carrier, which is adjustable.

3d. The head is movable, permitting the needle being set as near the shuttle as possible—a very essential point when changing a coarse needle for a very fine one, thereby preventing stitch-dropping or breaking needles.

4th. Bobbins can be filled without removing the cover, saving much time and wear of machine.

5th. Very easily threaded, as all the tension and thread guides are open.

6th. The tension never needs changing for the same thread, no matter what material sewed.

EXCITEMENT AT DRUG STORES.—There has been a general rush the last month at the Drug Store of J. C. Taylor, for Dr. A. Bosche's German Syrup.

It has lately been introduced in this country from Germany, and for any person suffering with a severe cough, heavy cold settled on the breast, consumption or any disease of the throat and lungs, it has no equal in the world. Our regular size bottles are 75 cents. Two doses will relieve any case. Try it.

PARISH.

The long drought is materially affecting our crops. Grass is very light. Unless we soon have rain, some meadows will not be worth mowing. Oats, from present appearance, will be light. Some pieces will be hardly fit to cut. Winter grains look fine. Corn and potatoes look the best of anything planted or sown. Cows are shrinking in their milk. Farmers are hoing their corn and potatoes.

For some days past the people have been working out their highway labor. The motto this year is "work or pay." There is no way to get rid of the responsibility. The highways must be worked, and worked well, too. The new regimen established since town meeting takes well. Some of the pathmasters are thriving their districts. We rather like the new way, though we are compelled to work out our tax, and a little more, so as to be all right. The highway from the village to the depot is being thoroughly graveled, and it is intended to be one of the best highways in this vicinity. A plank sidewalk is being built by subscription from the village to the depot, which will be a great improvement. It is hinted that young men must pay liberally towards the sidewalk, or they will not have the privilege to escort the young ladies thereon. The young ladies rather approve of the idea.

Preparations are being made to erect two more dwelling houses near the depot, one by Mr. A. H. Morse, the other by Abram David, Esq.

G. W. Ludington, Esq., lost a very fine horse the other day.

The second bridge at the village is nearly completed. Mr. R. C. Robertson is enlarging the highway by making it wider in front of the tavern and between the bridge and grist mill. Some six rods of bridge will have to be laid besides a large amount of filling in. It will cost not less than $100. The thanks of the people are due Mr. Robertson for his good sense and energy in this matter.

We have ascertained that Mexico has wisecracks as well as other places. One of them was in town a few days since, and in viewing Ludington's store remarked that "it was a nice building, but it is too large for Parish." Would it not be well for this wisecrack to take up his abode among the aborigines where there is no progression. One of the strongest impulses ever given to Mexico was the merchants building large stores. People went there to trade because they expected to find something, and they had stores that would hold something. Seven by nine stores will never build up a place. Mr. Ludington is a gentleman of foresight. He builds on the progressive principle. Odd.

Parish, June 22, 1873.

Commendable Resolutions.

The following resolutions, passed by the State Editorial Convention at Poughkeepsie last week, will be commended, not only by newspaper publishers, but we believe by lawyers everywhere:

WHEREAS, There are certain citations and other Legal Notices, issuing from the various counties of the State, now published in the State paper at Albany, which notices should of right be published only in the county papers, the necessity for their publication having passed away, and

WHEREAS, The publication of said notices in the State paper constitutes a monopoly which does manifest injustice to the State press, therefore

Resolved, That in the opinion of this Association, a law should be enacted by the Legislature repealing the law providing for the publication of said notices in the State paper, and providing that said notices be published in the respective county papers from which counties they issue.

Resolved, That this Association urge upon the State press the propriety and necessity for bringing this question before, and advocating its passage by, the next Legislature.

Resolved, That a Committee be appointed by this Association to have charge of and urge this matter before the next Legislature.

Letter from Iowa.

The State of Iowa has several natural curiosities, prominent among which is Burt's Cave, in the county of Jackson, some 40 miles from Davenport on the south, and about the same distance from Dubuque on the north. Your correspondent happened to be one of a small, but pleasant party who started one morning about 10 o'clock to visit this cave, situated in the timber lands, some 10 miles away, and in a northerly direction. On reaching the place you descend something like one hundred feet by a winding zig-zag path, and reach the bed of a small stream, which, at this season of the year, is nearly dry. As you look up you find eighty to one hundred feet, at your left, is a natural bridge, an arch of the huge rock overhanging the scene, covered by trees and shrubs, among them 2 or 3 large oaks 2 feet or more in diameter. To your front and winding away to your right is the vast rocky overhanging, shelving away some fifty feet to the bottom. Under this you wind your way until you come to the entrance of the subterranean chasm and by the aid of a lantern grope your way some forty rods, sometimes unable to avoid the little stream that ripples along until you emerge into open day, with the same overhanging rock a hundred feet above into which are clefts and openings that may be traversed for some distance. As the visitor passes along under this huge mass of overhanging rock, water now and then drips down, making the walking unpleasant from slipping pieces of rock and sandy mud.

This cave is visited in the summer season by excursionists from Clinton, Davenport and Dubuque, and by the citizens of Maquoketa, Delmar and other places around, and makes the occasion of many a delightful picnic, in one of which your correspondent, on the occasion above referred to, had the pleasure to participate. After paying due homage to one of the observances of all pic-nics, that department so wisely improvised by the ladies, by which I mean that one so acceptable to the inner man, we took our departure for home by another route leading to a fording place on the beautiful river, having a smooth bottom, but sufficient depth to bring the water freely into our carriage, to the little annoyance of those ladies, young ladies, of course, whose joyous hilarity contributed so much to the festivities of the occasion.

By the by, to those of us unfamiliar with western life, that frank, open heartedness one meets, as also that warm hospitality so earnestly rendered cannot fail to make a lasting impression.

The Celebration at Mexico Point.

On the Fourth of July there will be a celebration at Mexico Point, on which occasion an address will be delivered by Rev. S. S. N. Greeley, of Oswego. Two years ago a monument was erected there on what is now Towne's Island, in memory of Silas Towne, one of Washington's aids, and a government spy, who was buried there in 1806. The island was donated to the Monument Association by Hiram Parker, Esq., of Texas. Fifty dollars was given by Silas Davis, of Oswego, and the Association is still owing about $100.

On the 4th an opportunity will be presented for every one to record his or her name, and donate any sum toward the erection of the monument, and the expenses incurred by the committee. It is hoped that large numbers will be present. Mexico Point is a delightful place of resort, the address will be worth going a good way to hear, and what more appropriate way could be devised of celebrating our nation's birthday, and showing our patriotism, than by aiding in perpetuating the memory of such an one as Silas Towne?

RASTINGS.

Mr. Editor:—Perhaps you would like some items in regard to the crops in this section, so I send them. Winter wheat, where it has not winter-killed, looks fair. Winter rye looks well, except it suffers some from the dry weather, as in fact all grain does. Grass promises very poorly, and most farmers have to look for a substitute in sowed corn, &c.

Spring grain looks well, considering the dry weather, for although we have had a number of smart showers, the ground soon dries, especially on sandy land. Corn is mostly up and some are hoeing.

Apples promise a rather light crop, although there will be some in almost every orchard.

There has been a general rush of egg buyers through here, and, as a consequence, eggs have been high, to at least one person's sorrow.

Our school appears to prosper finely under the management of Miss Julia Barker, and as yet, we have heard no complaint from scholars or parents.

We have a pleasant little Sunday School, which is well conducted by an earnest few, and we earnestly hope much good will be done.

Rev. Mr. Smedley has favored us with a sermon once in two weeks for some time past, and we presume will continue to do so as long as the people wish him to come, if his health will permit.

BRIEFS.

—Every body wishing for rain.

—We regret to learn that Mr. A. Kilham is dangerously ill.

—The work on the newspaper extension at Oswego is steadily progressing.

—Postal cards can be sent to Canada by adding a one cent stamp.

—Homer Ballard has sold his Undertaking business to William Ely.

—Thomas Kingsford, of Oswego gives the firemen of that city $150 for efficient services at a city fire.

—Counterfeit currency of ten and fifty cent denomination is in circulation. Look out for it.

—Mr. S. E. Ball, who has been dangerously ill, has so far recovered as to be able to ride out.

—A woman's modesty is like her color—extremely becoming if not put on.

—The Syracuse and Chenango Valley R.R. will be sold under bankruptcy proceedings July 8th.

—Homer Ballard has greatly improved the front of his store by putting in large and handsome windows.

—Go to the Presbyterian Social tomorrow night. It will cost you nothing to enter, but you can spend what you like when you get there.

—Printing on the backs of postal cards done at the Independent Job Office neatly, promptly and on reasonable terms.

—Many people are not aware that a green postage stamp may be used twice. The first time it costs three cents; the second time, fifty dollars.

—The negotiations for the Hunting-Guards to travel with Barnum came to naught, the inducements offered not being sufficient.

—An exchange says that hotels have a substitute for hash called "moka." It includes all the ingredients of hash, and twenty-one more things.

—An adjudged special term of the Supreme court, Judge Morgan presiding, will be held at Syracuse, commencing July 1.

—It is said that some of our citizens who wished to see Barnum's Show, but disliked the reputation of attending a circus, went to Utica for that purpose.

—Albert C. Moore, a little boy living with Solomon Doolittle, has brought us an egg, laid by a Hamburg hen, which is the thickest we have ever seen.

—A new bundle has been introduced for the use of the ladies, so that they will not be called upon to carry so many old newspapers under their overskirt.

—John Y. Smith, of Iowa, is here on a brief visit. He is looking well, and is as much pleased as ever with his Western home.

—The cheese factory at South Scriba burned between 6 and 7 o'clock yesterday evening, together with quite a quantity of cheese in store.

—Our Station agent, Mr. C. L. Webb, informs us that 300 tickets were sold for Oswego on Monday. Twice that number of persons wanted to go, but could not for the lack of means.

—We thank our young friend Emma M. Fort, for a beautiful bouquet, chiefly of roses, which she brought into our office the other day. May Emma find roses all along her path through life.

—The latest patent is the "solar horse bonnet," a sort of double-decked parasol contrivance, which is stuck between the horse's ears to keep the ardent rays of the summer sun from frying his brains.

—An exchange says it is now the partial duty of temperance men to employ competent lawyers in each county to take care of cases arising under the new liquor law.

—Artificial wants are more numerous and lead to more expense than natural wants; from this cause the rich are often in greater want of money than those who have but a bare competency.

—The Watertown Times says: Twenty-five babies, none over one year old, held a convention at Rodman the other day. The occasion wound up with a "bawl" in full dress.

—If you find that Dr. White, "Squire Howard, Uncle John Briggs and Voder Green, are short of the "needful" just now, you may attribute it to the fact that they attended Barnum's on Monday and saw the "What is it?"

—Rev. S. S. N. Greeley, of Oswego, preached in the Presbyterian church in this village on Sunday morning last, and in the Baptist church in the evening. The sermons were earnest, practical and deeply interesting to all who heard them.

—Among the celebrities of this village at Barnum's on Monday, were Charles Kirby and Reub. Rice. The former went to see his relative, "What is it," and the latter to see the rhinoceros and to vend pop-corn.

—The Huntington Guards went to Oswego on Monday to be present at the review and inspection of the 48th regiment N. G. S. N. Y., of which they are a part. The review took place before Brevet Major-General Morris, Inspector General of the State. The regiment was out in full force, and, as we learn, went through the maneuvers with much credit.

Robbery at Scottsville.

On Friday evening, the houses of Rev. T. A. Weed, Presbyterian clergyman, and Benjamin Warren, of Scottsville, were entered and robbed to the amount of about $80 each. The property stolen consisted mostly of silver ware. The thieves were not novices, for they selected the solid silver from the plated with an accuracy that would do no discredit to an expert. They took from Mr. Weed's dwelling everything in the shape of solid silver ware—finds of spoons, forks, napkin rings, etc., but no money. The family were all absent in the evening to attend a strawberry festival, a fact probably known and taken advantage of by the burglars. The visit to Mr. Warren's was made later in the evening, while the family were sleeping. The thieves took Mr. Warren's pocket-book, containing about $25.—Rocheater Democrat.

Literary Notices.

"BEHIND THE SCENES IN WASHINGTON," being a complete and graphic account of the Credit Mobilier Investigation, the Congressional Rings, Political Intrigues, workings of the Lobbies, &c.; Giving the Secret History of our National Government, Showing how the Public Money is Squandered, and how Votes are Obtained, with Sketches of the Leading Senators, Congressmen, Government Officials, &c., and an accurate description of the Splendid Public Buildings of the Federal Capitol. By Edward Winslow Martin. Published by the Continental Publishing Co., New York.

When we see such revelations as have been made in Washington during the past winter, we are naturally forced to conclude that these must be a small outcropping of the vast harvest of corruption that overspreads the country. Every one feels a keen desire to get at the facts of this terrible and intensely interesting history. The author carries his readers "Behind the Scenes" of the great political drama of our governmental life, and shows us the actors who are charged with the most vital interests of the country, stripped of the brilliant hues and attractions which partisan admiration has thrown around them, and exhibits them to us as they really are.

It is no mere sensation book, designed to pander to a morbid curiosity. Mr. Martin gives a plain unvarnished history of the infamous Credit Mobilier affair, and makes disclosures with which every citizen, of whatever party, should acquaint himself and which are terribly startling. He drags the mysterious lobby and its members out into the broad light of day and tells us all about them, giving sketches of the noted "Women of the Lobby." He introduces us to the White House, and to its occupants. He lays bare the secret working of the Department, and shows how they are conducted. He tells us about the hard worked and poorly paid employees of the departments, and gives interesting facts about the

Help the Home for Aged and Infirm Deaf-Mutes.

As a suggestion of one way in which the good work may be helped, we will mention that last week the pupils and students of the Columbia Institution, by voluntary contributions of little sums at their monthly concerts, were able to bestow between sixty and seventy dollars for this purpose. They will doubtless give as much or more this year. Will not other Institutions adopt the same course?—American Annals for April.

The above suggestion is a capital one, and prompted by motives of charity. It is recommended to the kind attention of every Institution for the Deaf and Dumb in the Union, and is certainly a very plausible one, and should be generally adopted, inasmuch as the benefits of the Home are designed for the aged and crippled deaf-mutes of the whole country. Every Institution has means at hand with which to get up a pantomime play during the year, and cannot fail to realize a considerable sum of money, which, in the aggregate, would form a handsome fund. This would, to a large extent, relieve the wants of the Home, which will, as the number of its inmates increases every year, require more and more aid.

But outside of the Institutions there are other ways by which much good may be accomplished for the Home, and one is through the "might of mites" at the meetings of various deaf-mute societies in the United States. Last summer the Ohio Alumni Association raised a good round sum for the benefit of the Home at its Convention in Columbus, for which it should receive much praise.

Now as the Empire State Association is to hold a Convention in Rochester this summer, let us prove ourselves not a whit behind the above-named Association in the cause, but outstrip it if possible. Let every one of us intending to go to the Convention, at once enclose a dollar in an envelope and mark it, "Aid for the Home," with the donor's name, and thus be prepared upon our arrival at the Convention, to hand it immediately to Mr. S. A. Taber, Treasurer of the Association, who will faithfully apply it to the purpose for which it is designed. Let every opulent mite contribute proportionately more in his or her envelope, as he or she feels willing. Let all others, who may not be able to be personally present at the Convention, now remit their mites by mail to Mr. S. A. Taber, Scipio, Cayuga Co., N. Y.

Dear friends, think of this! A nice sum is sure to be realized if every one will thus lend a cordial hand in the manner above stated.

The Home has at present five mute inmates under its fostering care, who would otherwise be in a pitiable condition if sent to the public almshouse, where they would be isolated and subjected to peculiar privations. It is under the care of the Episcopal Church Mission to Deaf-Mutes, but, all may be assured, is not designed to be sectarian, and open to disabled deaf-mutes of all denominations, both as a charity and as a refuge for those who may be able to pay a small sum towards their support.

Think of it, how happy the brethren, now inmates of the Home, though less themselves, must be at the thought that they are in the right channel to pass their declining years free from the restless and wicked sneers and scoffs of the world, and with opportunities for holy communion in their own language.

Now, reader, will you cordially respond to our appeal in behalf of the occupants of the Home by adopting the envelope system as above proposed?

Rev. Dr. Gallaudet is persistently working day after day for the welfare of our whole deaf and dumb community, and it becomes our province, yes, our duty, to co-operate with him and lift from his shoulders, as far as possible, the heavy burden which he bears on our account.

CONVENTION.—The programme for the Convention of the Empire State Deaf-Mute Association will be given in full in our issue of next week. We intended to publish it this week, but having been very busily engaged, we were compelled to defer it for a few days.

ANOTHER POSTPONEMENT.—For good reasons the drawing of the numbers for the painting by J. Edwin Story, is obliged to be postponed again until the 30th day of July next. The author wishes ticket holders to use a little patience and forbearance with him, and in due time the drawing will take place, and will be conducted in a fair and impartial manner. Mr. Story has still on hand about 300 tickets for sale, and doubts not they will all be disposed of, and every thing be in readiness at the above-named day.

Now, kind friends, please use a little influence among your friends and acquaintances, and assist and encourage the author. While his labors are worthy enterprise. While all ticket holders will for the small sum of 50 cents, stand a chance to draw a fine and valuable prize, they will also be encouraging industry and fine arts among the deaf and dumb.

Letter from New York.

NEW YORK, June 16, 1873.

Mrs. Franklin Campbell died at 4 o'clock Tuesday morning, in the City Hospital, where she had been removed for treatment. On Thursday afternoon, at about two o'clock, many of her friends gathered at her late residence, and Dr. Gallaudet was present to conduct the funeral services, but, owing to the non-arrival of his remains, her funeral was postponed to Friday morning. She was buried in Green-Wood. This, indeed, a sad case. Only about two weeks ago she was healthy and strong, but now she has been a tenant of the tomb for several days. Had she died at her own home, surrounded by her family and friends, it would have seemed more natural. But her friends have the satisfaction of knowing that everything was done for her that it was possible for them to do, and they did what they thought was for the best. The deaf-mutes are fortunate in having such a friend as Dr. Gallaudet. He has been indefatigable in his efforts to aid them, and, as an illustration of the amount of work he is sometimes called upon to perform, it is only necessary to mention that on the day the funeral of Mrs. Campbell was to take place, he was engaged to take a party of young people up the river on a picnic excursion; but after taking the party to their destination he managed to be rowed in a small boat to the other side of the river, where he took the cars on the Hudson R. R. to reach the City, in time to be in readiness to officiate as clergyman at the funeral. After waiting until 4 o'clock, and the remains not arriving, he was obliged to excuse himself on the ground that he was engaged to officiate at a wedding.

Your correspondent took a stroll in the Central Park last Saturday, and learned that there was a match game of Base Ball played there, between a club composed of deaf-mutes from the New York Institution for Deaf and Dumb, and a club from the city. The mutes walked over them by a score of 36 to 10.

It has not rained for several weeks, and the dust is so deep and thick in the roads, that if we don't get rain pretty soon, we shall have to procure snow. And this it would take all the water in Croton Lake to level all the dust in this place.

A few days ago it was very warm weather, but now it is as cool as the weather in October. Reader, did you ever hear of that young poet who tried to write poetry on a very hot day? He sat down to his desk and after scratching his head a few minutes wrote two lines as follows:

The sun's perpendicular rays
Shone down into the depths of the sea."

Finding it too hot to write any more just then, he got up and went out. In a few minutes a friend of his came in, and seeing the two lines, sat down and finished the verse by adding the following:

"And the fishes, beginning to sweat, Cried, good Lord! how hot it will be!"

I am happy to report that Mr. Clearwater, of whose sickness mention was made in my last letter, is much better.

Passages in the Life of a Deaf-Mute.

CHAPTER III.

For several months after George Herman's return home, he did little more than kill time best as he might. Visited and excursions with his friends seemed to delight him for a time. Once he visited the forest, the hunting ground of his family, and spent a week in the little hut which still existed, but the excitement of the chase had but a brief duration for him, and as time wore on he became restless, he longed for some active business pursuit, and wanted to work.

So he asked his father if it would not be well for him to set up in business as a book binder, but the parent did not wish any of his sons who lived with him to be a tradesman, he would rather they should be gentlemen. Then George told his father that he had resolved to go to America. The parent did not seek to keep him at home, he told George that he was free to go if he wished. So, provided with a well filled purse and injunctions to apply for financial aid, whenever he should be in want, George set out for Hamburg, and was soon far out on the Atlantic. This was before the time of steamships, and the voyage lasted sixty days. Arriving in New York, George obtained employment as glider in the house of Hopper & Co. His workmanship was soon acknowledged the best in the factory. His connection with the Italian mutes had enabled him to acquire a knowledge of the Italian methods of gliding, that was something of a wonder in this country. He specially benefited of value to his employer and received the highest wages.

One evening, about six months after his arrival in America, George entered a restaurant, and while seated at a table with his "sandwich and lager," had his attention drawn by the familiar countenance of a man who was sitting at a table opposite him. At first George thought it must be a mere coincidence, but the more he looked, the more he became convinced that the stranger was his brother, Herman, of whom neither he nor his family had heard for five years. He determined to find out if the stranger really was his brother, so he walked near him and spoke his name:

"Herman!"

Instantly the man turned round, looked at George and rose and clasped him in his arms. It was really his long lost brother, George was overjoyed to find him, and Herman was glad to find George. They talked for a long time, George telling his brother all about his parents, and Herman recounting his own adventures and telling that he was married, was a physician and lived in Williamsburgh. George paid them a visit and was much pleased with their surroundings, and by and by went to live with them. After George had found his brother, he sat down and wrote a long letter to his parents, telling them all about Herman.

KOUPONETI.

Enquiries.

—Rev. Thomas B. Berry has been requested and is expected to conduct the examination at the Michigan Institution, which school closes on the 26th inst.

—A newspaper of a late date says: An old gentleman (thought to be a member of the Legislature from the "rural districts") went into Trinity Church at Boston, Sunday afternoon, while Rev. Mr. Gallaudet was repeating the service to the deaf-mutes, by signs, &c. After attentively watching the proceedings for a few moments, he rose from his seat, took his hat and cane and started for the door, as he passed out, shook his head reproachfully at the sexton and muttered:

"Can't stand them ritual tantrums now."

—The first person confirmed by the Bishop of Niobrara, (Nebraska) was a deaf-mute man, baptized by him in the morning.

—On a recent Sunday Rev. Dr. Gallaudet baptized 3 children of a colored deaf-mute couple. Would it not be anovel sight if it was performed before the Rochester Convention?

The Deaf and Dumb in London.

On Friday evening the Marquis of Lorne presided at a dinner at Willis's Rooms, for the benefit of the association in aid of the deaf and dumb, in connection with the Church of St. Saviour, in Oxford Street, the first stone of which was laid in July, 1870, by His Royal Highness the Prince of Wales. The company, many of whom were ladies, numbered upwards of 100, and included Lord Ebury, the Hon. Dudley Porteus, M. P., Sir Robert Torrens, M. P., the Rev. Sir W. Tilson Marsh, Sir George E. Hodgkinson, the Rev. Jordan Palmer, Mr. J. Harris Heal, the Rev. Francis Glyn, the Rev. E. Gardner, Mr. G. L. Phipps Eyre, Mr. J. G. Garden Brown, the Rev. Wm. Stainer, and the Rev. Samuel Smith, the chaplain. Among the visitors were several deaf and dumb persons, to whom the various speeches were translated in the sign language in the course of their deliveries by Mr. Smith and Mr. Stainer.

The site of the church, which is situated at the corner of Queen-street, Oxford-street, was given by the Marquis of Westminster, and attached to it is a large hall for lectures, evening classes, reading, and recreation, and a residence for the chaplain. The building, it is said, will be the head quarters of the charity, the work of which consists in visiting at their homes the 2,000 deaf and dumb scattered throughout London, in affording them religious instruction and the means of maintaining and improving their knowledge obtained at school, in assisting them to procure employment, and relieving them in urgent distress, and endeavoring in every possible way to ameliorate their condition. The Church accommodates about 250 worshippers, and is so planned that while meeting all the requirements of the deaf and dumb it is equally available for a "hearing" congregation, and for the ordinary church service. The Association at present provides 12 services in every week in eight parts of London, and lectures and evening classes are also held. The deaf and dumb are visited at their own homes, and by this means their troubles and wants are discovered, and, if possible, alleviated, and an influence for good obtained over them. The charity also secures employment for deaf and dumb persons with good characters, and relieves, either by gifts or loans of money, deserving and necessitous persons so afflicted. It likewise encourages the early training of deaf and dumb children preparatory to their admission into educational institutions. The dinner on Friday evening had for its principal object the raising of the amount still required to finish the church, lecture room, and offices in Oxford-street.

The loyal toasts having been duly honored, Mr. C. L. Phipps Eyre proposed the health of the Bishops and clergy of the diocese to which the Rev. Francis Glyn, Sub-Dean of the Chapel Royal, replied.

The Marquis, in giving the toast of the evening, "Prosperity to the Association in Aid of the Deaf and Dumb," observed that some misconception existed as to the connection between the excellent schools for the deaf and dumb in the Old Kent road and that Society. In reality, the association had no active connection with the other institution, but it attended to the material as well as to the moral wants of those who had left the schools, and that, as he thought, most effectively. It was also partly an educational agency, for it supplemented in many ways the teaching elsewhere obtained by the deaf and dumb who lived in the metropolis. It had a very wide area for its operations, seeing that its missionaries and agents scoured this vast city in search of the afflicted, and, having found them, did their utmost to tend, care for, and put them in a way to obtain their own living. The services in the beautiful church recently erected here all held by means of the wonderful language of the hand, and in this way religious knowledge was imparted to those who would otherwise be sadly deficient in it. His Lordship observed that there could be no fear that any of the recipients of the charity were impostors, and, on very many grounds, he appealed to the company to render material support.

Lord Ebury proposed the health of the chairman, and offered to contribute £100, in addition to his ordinary donations to the Association, if £400 was forthcoming from other sources within the next six months.

Lord Lorne, referring to the compliment, thanked the company for the hearty manner in which the name of Princess Louise and his own had been received, and observed that her Royal Highness, who took a deep interest in the Institution, looked forward to attending on an early occasion, one of the services at St. Saviour's Church.

During the evening, Mr. Healey, a deaf and dumb gentleman, recited in the gesture or pantomime language—as distinguished from the ordinary finger signs—"William Tell's address to his Native Mountains," by Sheridan Knowles. Mr. Smith the Chaplain, reading aloud the lines to the company as he proceeded.

About £500 was collected in aid of the charity.—London (Eng.) Paper.
